ALDERMEN HELD A RAZING-FEST

GREEK CANDY STANDS AND WILSON LANE'S STRUCTURE TO BE LEVELED.

INTERURBAN CO. PAYS $500

As Its Share Of Cost Of Spring Brook Bridge—Bond Issue Preliminary—Tax Forfeiting Not Mentioned.

By resolution, the common council last evening characterized the two small frame and brick-veneered confectionery and lunch-stand structures located near the Y. M. C. A. building as common nuisances erected in violation of the fire ordinance and ordered the city marshal to have them razed to the ground and the expense charged to the owners. The owner of one of them is supposed to be a Greek named Jake Pappas and a man named Williams, said to be at present residing in Freeport, is believed to have to sort of a title to the other one. Neither establishment is on the tax roll but Mr. Pappas has allowed it to be known that he will hold the city liable for any damage done to the $1,000 stock of goods in the layout near the corner. He is willing to pay taxes and has asked Contractor James Shearer for an estimate of the cost of making the structure fireproof. Mr. Shearer, however, has not finished the estimate and declares that it will not be feasible to locate building operations until next spring. Both resolutions were carried by a vote of 8 to 1. Alderman Hall registering the negative protest. Alderman Brown was absent from the session. Alderman Lowell wanted to know whether or not Wilson Lane had complied with the council's order regarding a frame addition to his building on North Main street. City Attorney Maxfield stated that Mr. Lane was authorized for the statement that the sheet-iron material for covering it had arrived but that he was waiting for the man who is to put it on to finish another contract. Alderman Buchholz introduced an order directing the city attorney to prepare a resolution directing that Mr. Lane's frame structure be razed to the ground and present it at the next meeting. The order was passed.

Interurban To Pay $500.

By the terms of a resolution introduced by Alderman Dulla and passed by unanimous vote, the city agrees to accept $500 from the Interurban Co. as its full share of the cost of construction of the new $5,000 bridge over Spring Brook on Belmont Avenue, and its maintenance or replacement in the future and through the mayor to execute and deliver upon payment of the money, a receipt in full, for any liability on the part of the said company for the construction of the said bridge or its repair, renewal, or replacement by any other bridge in the future, it being the understanding that the city will build, maintain, and reconstruct, if it ever should become necessary, a bridge across Spring Brook at that point strong enough to carry the interurban cars and over which this said cars may be run and operated by the said company in the usual course of its business. Prior to the vote on the measure, Mayor Carlo called upon City Engineer C. V. Kerch for a statement. The latter said that he considered $500 sufficient reimbursement to the city for the additional strengthening which was made advisable in view of the likelihood that interurban cars would be run over the bridge. The only question, it seemed to him, was one relating to the advisability of freeing the company from all liability for repairs and reconstruction in the future.

Bridge Bond Ordinance.
Ordinance providing for two issues of five per cent bonds to raise the amounts necessary for building the new $25,000 bridge at Fourth Avenue and the one to cost $17,000 at Racine Street, were introduced by Alderman Sheridan and given their first and second readings. The measure provides for a special annual tax levy. In each instance, during the next twenty years to pay principal and interest. The sum of $15,200 is appropriated for paying the interest on the Fourth Avenue issue and $8,075 for the Racine street issue. The bonds will be in denominations of $500. Both ordinances will probably be given their third readings and placed on passage at the next meeting.

Licenses.
James Boylen was granted permission to transfer the license for a saloon at 13 North Franklin Street to Arthur A. Hartman and similar action was taken with regard to 132 Porterbrook's petition for the privilege of transferring his license for the saloon at 14 South River Street to T. Rossa. The bonds of the new proprietors were approved and accepted. On recommendation of Alderman Hall of the license committee the council, by unanimous vote, laid on the table a petition of Charles Horro of Watertown for permission to operate a portable peanut and pop corn stand on the streets, together with his offer to pay $150 a year for the privilege.

Matters Of Finance.
The finance committee's reports on bills and the salary list were adopted and the council directed that the following orders be drawn: $12.40 payable from the general fund to City Attorney H. L. Maxfield to cover clerk fees advanced by him for the supreme court hearing of the case of Harman & Lohmeyer against the city; $32.71 payable to W. W. Ryan to "expense" an overcharge for 445 yards of crushed stone; $7.10 payable to the Grand-Griffin Co. for brick; $8.21 payable from Sewer Dist. No. 1 fund, to William Clark as a refund of a special assessment against his property in Pease's second addition on Milton Avenue. Mayor Carlo was authorized to borrow $1,800 and place the same to the credit of the fire and water fund.

Miscellaneous Business.
Street Commissioner Proctor submitted an annual report of sidewalks built by the city for property owners. There were charges totalling $258 ordered seven of them and they were ordered placed upon the tax roll. The street commissioner was directed to build brick crosswalks over Locust street on the south side of Galena and over South High street on the north side of Galena street. Ald. Buchholz called attention to a litter of building material at the corner of Wall and Academy Streets and asked that it be cleared away.

Nobody Would Father It.
For some reason or other no one would "father" an ordinance drawn up. It is understood, by the city attorney on his own initiative and evidently aimed at the "mushers" who are supposed to be the cause of the trouble, that it should be an ordinance prohibiting any person of either sex to erect, erect, follow, maintain, lay hands on, or otherwise molest any person of the opposite sex within the city limits of Janesville.

OBITUARY

Charles J. de Brard.

Charles J. de Brard, for many years a prominent resident of this city, died suddenly last night at his home in Norwood Park, Ill., aged sixty-one years. His wife was Miss Jennie Powers of this city. They resided in the First Ward on Washington Street, here Mr. de Brard owned a block of the land on the east side of the street north of Mineral Point Avenue. Mr. de Brard was, at the time of his death, treasurer of the Port & Transit Manufacturing Company and interested in the Howell-Patterson Railway Safety stock. Besides the widow, three daughters and two sons survive him. Mrs. Croft, a sister of Mrs. de Brard, and Mrs. Jerome, both of this city, the latter an aunt of Mr. de Brard, went to Chicago this afternoon to attend the funeral which will be held at the home in Norwood Park at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

DEBATING LEAGUE PLANS PERFECTED

Representatives of Various High Schools Met at Beloit to Discuss Plans for Season.

In an address before the high school this morning, Prof. L. F. Rahr explained the plans of the high school debating league for the coming season. Prof. Rahr was the representative for Janesville at a conference of the various schools included in the league, which was held at Beloit last Saturday. Delegates from Rockford, Beloit, Elgin, Freeport, and Janesville were present and a larger and better organization was planned for the coming winter. Invitations have been extended by the league, which is conducted under the auspices of Beloit College, to Madison and Kenosha in order that there may be more Wisconsin schools included in the contest. A further change in the league was announced to the effect that Aurora had withdrawn and that Oak Park High school will fill the vacancy thus made. From now on the organization will be a permanent one and officers will be elected from the schools represented. The question for debate will also be chosen earlier hereafter, the plan being to select it during the spring previous to the debate, so that the schools can get an early start.

The wording of the topic for this year was decided upon at the meeting last Saturday. It reads as follows: "Resolved, that the constitution of the Wisconsin State League of High Schools of Wisconsin and Illinois of between 4,000 and 200,000 population." It was further decided that by the commission plan was meant the features which are at present in operation in the cities of Des Moines and Galveston, and that the legality of the system should be considered. The salaries of the commissioners, it was determined, should be fixed by the state legislature, in order to prevent quibbling on that point.

With the details thus arranged work will be started immediately at the local high school. The first preliminary, in which all the students desiring to compete for a place on the team will be entered, will be held on December 12th. Janesville's first debate will be held at Beloit on January 20th, the semi-finals in both states are scheduled for the fourth Friday in February and the finals for the fifth Friday in March. The judges for the different debates are to be chosen one by each of the contesting schools and the third is to be selected from the faculty of Beloit College.

Winners of the championship for the two states will be awarded a cup and some sort of a trophy will be given to the winners of the honors in the individual states. The league under the direction of Prof. Crawford of the public speaking at Beloit college, promises to have a very successful year.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The decline in the price of corn, which amounts to some $100,000,000, very naturally affects the price of meats, and the cost of living is gradually being reduced. While the packers have been freely denounced, it is evident to the most casual observer, that the shrinkage on corn and meat is born by the farmer and producer and not by the middleman, who simply acts as a distributor. It is the same old question of supply and demand, which in the main regulates prices. A New York financier in discussing the situation, says:

"With some relief in the high cost of living in sight, and with the political campaign out of the way, two important elements of depression have been ameliorated. If not removed, it is true the tariff question is still with us. We must expect and endure a period of heated and prolonged discussion, but now legislation seems hardly probable before 1912.

Our new Congressmen do not go into office until a year hence, and all talk of an extra session of Congress after March 4, 1911, when the approaching session ends, should be earnestly discourage. The short session beginning a week hence will be fully occupied with appropriations and other necessary routine affairs, and these should not be delayed in order to afford a pretext for forcing the President into calling an extra session to enable premature seating of new members.
"There is danger of a political trick of this sort, and it should be severely discountenanced by the entire business community. It is universally admitted that the tariff must be revised downwards, but hasty action is inadvisable, and the country is entitled to a period of rest before another change is enforced. Some interval between meddled doses is necessary, or even our vigorous tariff-fed infant will not survive the treatment.

"Depression is more keen in the East than in the West, where the beneficial influence of good crops is distinctly felt. The decline in farmers' profits, however, is a factor that must be reckoned with, considering the increased obligations and expenses which many must face. The farmer will not be as prosperous as a year ago. In Eastern industrial circles there is more or less depression because of the reaction in business.

"The disposition among consumers to economize is certainly checking consumption. In the great iron industry, which leads all others in importance, there is still a very pronounced state of inactivity. The latter is not likely to be removed until the railroad comes into the market as purchasers of materials, something which they will be unable to do untill the rate question is settled and the outlook for traffic becomes more encouraging.

General prosperity in this country is based on the prosperity of the farmer. When agricultural money circulates freely, the industrial world is active, work is plenty and wages good.
Cheap corn and bacon have always meant hard times and lack of employment. The cost of living is of secondary importance.

So much attention is given to physical culture and outdoor exercise these days, that American portrait painters find trouble in securing fatigued models of sufficient grace and beauty to gratify aesthetic taste. John W.
Alexander, president of the National Academy of Design, and Dr. Dudley Sargent of Harvard, have entered a protest, claiming that American women are becoming masculine, through too much exercise, but the girls will continue to play golf and develop muscle in the open air, because health is of first importance. There will always be enough hot-house plants for models.

The city of Des Moines, Iowa, is likely to be "dry" for the next five years. All licenses expire Dec. 15, and before they can be renewed each applicant must secure a petition signed by 51 per cent of the voters. The business men, 500 strong, are opposing the saloon men, with a good prospect of winning out.

Chicago is not over sensitive, but the production of "Salome" by the Strauss Opera company has shocked the modesty of even the police force.

Tearing up the city streets at the edge of winter is a bad proposition.
It may be possible to restore them, but the experiment has never been a success.

The plan to boycott clothing manufacturers in Chicago, suggested by one of the preachers at their meeting yesterday, did not meet with favor, the ministers very wisely voting it down.

A St. Louis judge decided that a fish is not an animal, because Noah neglected them in making up his cargo.

ILLINOIS IS THIRD STATE

SHOWS INCREASE IN POPU-LATION OF 16.9 PER CENT.
IN DECADE.

5,638,591 IS HER NEW MARK

Commonwealth May Gain Four New Representatives in Congress of U.
S.—Chicago Gives Much Aid—
Some Counties Show Loss.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The state of Illinois contains 5,638,591 inhabitants, according to the official announcement made by the director of the census.

The Prairie state retains its rank as third in the Union, according to these figures, the result of the thirteenth census, which were made public by Director Durand.

The growth of the state in the last ten years is 87,011 inhabitants, or 16.9 per cent, over 4,821,580 in 1900.
The increase from 1890 to 1900 was 935,199, or 26 per cent.

Illinois should gain at least four congressmen if the proposed new apportionment law should be based as present.

The population of Chicago, announced several weeks ago, is 2,785, 283.

Much of the gain is in Chicago.
Illinois makes a better showing than any other state of the middle region so far announced, and more than half of the gain is in Chicago.

Of the increase of 87,011 for the Prairie state as a whole 489,708 is credited to Chicago.

The announcement for Illinois greatly emphasizes the fact that the greatest gains are in the cities. A study of the map of the state shows that the principal counties in which increase was indicated were those containing cities of 10,000 and upward.

Chicago is shown to possess about two-fifths of the state population.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE ROMANCE OF BARBED WIRE.

Mrs. Joe Glidden threatened to do something outlandish if Joe did not keep the pigs out of her cabbages and onions.

That was back in the sixties.
So one day Glidden drove to the hamlet of Dekalb, Ill., three miles distant, with an idea in his head. His horse had cast a shoe. In the shoe stuck a nail. Why not stick sharp nails through wire and thus keep the pigs out of Mrs. Glidden's garden?

Joe wanted to talk about it with Isaac Ellwood, the hardware dealer.
Ellwood listened and then said, "If I get the patent, Joe, will you give me a half interest?"

Joe agreed.
That evening Isaac Ellwood explained the idea to his wife, who said:
"That the nail slips. Take two wires and twist them around the nail."

Moreover, the bright woman suggested the use of a coffee mill to twist the wires.

So that next day Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood took a big coil of wire and a new coffee mill from the store and went out to Joe Glidden's place.

Glidden fed the wire into the coffee mill, Ellwood turned the crank, and Mrs. Glidden stuck in the bars at the right time.

That day they made enough barbed wire to fence one side of Mrs. Glidden's garden, and, taking a sample, Ellwood went to Washington.

Which was the beginning of a billion dollar business—the American Steel and Wire company.

The first machine, an improvement over the coffee mill, was set up in the rear of Ellwood's store. Afterward capitalists bought out Glidden's share, and the big company was organized.

And the story reads right along just as beautifully as before—

Glidden got a lot of money and stayed in Dekalb. Ellwood became a millionaire and stayed in Dekalb. And nobody who really needed money ever appealed to Mr. or Mrs.
Ellwood in vain.

The other day Mrs. Ellwood died. And somehow Isaac Ellwood did not care to live any longer.

He called his children about him, divided his fortune, willed large sums to charity, and a few weeks after his wife passed away he died.

Which is the end.
And this postscript: In a day when men are accused of robbing widows and orphans and getting according to law the story of Isaac and Mrs. Ellwood is one world's while.

CITY ANXIOUS FOR PEACE

CHICAGO COUNCIL MAKES MOVE TO SETTLE GARMENT WORK-ERS' STRIKE.

SETTLEMENT IS DEMANDED

Committee Is Named to Open Arbitration Negotiations With Employers and Workers—Girl Is Shot
In Riot—Others Hurt.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Demanding that the garment workers' strike, which is causing great suffering to citizens and loss of business, be brought to a "just and lasting settlement," Alderman Morriam asked in the city council for the appointment of a committee to bring about a conference of the manufacturers and strike leaders. Mr.
Morriam's resolution was adopted without discussion or a dissenting vote and the mayor at once appointed a committee.

The committee is instructed to meet with representatives of the clothing manufacturers and the strikers with a view of bringing about a settlement of the strike.

Ministers Reject Boycott.
The boycott as a means of forcing a quick ending of the strike was proposed during the day at a meeting of the Federated Council of Protestant Churches at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets. The proposition was tabled, however, on the ground it was not a proper action to be taken by a ministers' meeting and that it was illegal.

Considerable discussion preceded a motion by Rev. C. H. Chandler, western editor of the Congregationalist, who asked the other ministers to pass a resolution pledging themselves not to buy clothing manufactured by the firms involved in the strike.

Three Hurt in Riots.
Two riots at Westworth avenue and Alexander street resulted in three persons receiving injuries and nine arrests. Joe Benalla, a tailor, was clubbed by a policeman during the riot; Emma Ginto, fifteen years old, was knocked unconscious by a blow from a baseball bat, said to be in the hands of Bertha Pecon, now under arrest, and John McCann, police sorgeant of the Twenty-second street station, was knocked down by a stone, said to have been thrown by Benalla.

Miss Frances Vesely, twenty-one years old, was shot in the hand by Walter Miller, twelve years old. The shooting occurred while a riot was in progress in front of the boy's residence. The boy, who, with his sister, is working as a strikebreaker, fired into the crowd, he said, in defense of his sister.

Bright Idea Not Feasible.
In attempting to establish an ostrich farm in Abyssinia the original idea was to capture live ostriches and breed them. This did not prove successful, as the birds nearly always died after the pursuit necessary to get them.

Whistling Women.
There is a superstition that it is very unlucky for a woman to whistle.
It arises from an old tradition that while the nails of our Lord's cross were being forced a woman stood by and whistled, and, curiously enough, comparatively few women ever whistle.—Home Notes.</

Painless Dentistry

My Painless work is reaching out tremendously among the neighboring cities.

Just for illustration, on last Saturday I had patients from Afton, Evansville, Footville and two from Clinton, one from Milwaukee, besides several from 4 to 8 miles on either side of town.

Today I had one from Montana who waited till on a visit here before having her Dental work done.

I also extracted two teeth for a third patient just now who—like all the rest—said, "Dr. Richards, you never hurt a bit."

Try me for your own work.

Dainty Laces

Carefully Cleaned

Ordinarily, people fear to send their soiled laces to cleaners. So rare and beautiful laces remain unused and unenjoyed. One can hardly blame them for not wanting to send them to some cleaners.

We base these facts on what our customers have told us. So we set to work to perfect a method to skillfully clean lace. And we succeeded. We ask you to find out for yourself by giving us a trial order.

CHILD DROWNED IN WASHBOILER

LITTLE DORIS IRENE BABCOCK, AGED 3, MET TRAGIC DEATH TODAY.

WAS PLAYING WITH MIRROR

It is thought that she slipped over edge of boiler into water in looking for her toy.

Doris Irene Babcock, three years and nine months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Babcock, 705 Fifth ave., was drowned in a hot water boiler filled with water at the home of her parents this morning. The tragedy occurred while the mother was out of the house for about fifteen minutes to hang some clothes on the line. The boiler had been left on the kitchen floor near the water faucet, the water in it having cooled. It is thought that the child fell into the boiler in an attempt to secure a drink of water from the faucet or slipped over the edge in an attempt to reach a small mirror which was found on the bottom later. The child had been in the water about ten minutes, in the supposition, when the mother returned to the house and found her. Dr. Fred Sutherland was immediately summoned, but all efforts to revive the child were in vain.

All who have seen the Collie perform realize that he is the most intelligent canine ever seen here. Mr. McCormick values her at $5,000.

DANCE GIVEN BY TELEPHONE GIRLS

Young Ladies Of Rock County Telephone Company Entertained At Assembly Hall Last Evening.

In Assembly Hall, profitably decorated for the occasion with streamers and red bells, a number of the young ladies employed by the Rock County Telephone Company were the hostesses at a dancing party last evening. About seventy-five couples of young people attended the affair, which was one of the most pleasant of the season. Knott & Hatch's orchestra of five pieces furnished a delightful program of waltzes and two-steps, each number being encored. The dancing lasted from nine until one.

W. J. MILLER, MRS. MARY DEEL.

QUIET WEDDING WAS HELD LAST EVENING

Miss Maude Schnell Married to Fay E. Edgington at Her Parents' Home on Milton Avenue.

Rev. J. W. Laughlin read the marriage ceremony at seven thirty last evening that united Miss Maude Schnell and Fay E. Edgington as man and wife at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schnell, on Milton avenue. The ceremony was a quiet one, only relatives and intimate friends of the bride couple being present.

The home had been most tastefully decorated for the festive occasion, the color scheme being white and green. The marriage lines were read in the parlor where a handsome arch of white ribbon and smilax had been arranged while white roses, smilax and southern greens were used in other rooms. The dining room was in white with a profusion of white roses and ribbons of the same color.

Miss Schnell was unattended and was seated in a white machine with a white chauffeur. The ceremony was performed under the arch in the parlor and was immediately followed by a tempting buffet luncheon at which the thirty guests sat down.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgington left on their wedding trip last evening and will return later to make their home for the winter at the Schnell home. Mr. and Mrs. Schnell leaving in a few days for the Pacific coast where they will visit their other daughter, Mrs. Edward Johnson, who lives in Seattle. After the first of March Mr. and Mrs. Edgington will make their home in Rockford.

Despite the plans of their friends the happy couple occupied their honeymoon by using an automobile to make their trip to the station. Mr. and Mrs. Edgington received many handsome presents of silver and cut glass.

STOLEN GOLD WATCH HAS BEEN RECOVERED

Valuable Timepiece Taken by Nine-year-old Boy and Sold For a Quarter Found in Milwaukee.

Some weeks ago a valuable gold watch and chain belonging to a Mrs. Starr who resides on Center avenue were stolen by a nine-year-old boy who delivered the watch. The neck chain was hidden in a lumber yard and the watch sold for twenty-five cents to a Greek employed at one of the confectionery stands near the Y. M. C. A. building. The theft was traced to the youth and he confessed and disclosed to Officer Chumpton the place in the lumber yard where it was hidden. The Greek who bought the watch, however, had left town. Jake Pappas interested himself in the case and traced the buyer of the jewelry to Milwaukee. This morning Mr. Pappas was able to turn over the missing timepiece to Chief Appleby.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I AM exceptionally glad tonight that I write this chat.

Because it gives me a chance to express some pent up feelings about the person who regards indifference and considered plain speaking as the shining evening star among virtues. And if I didn't have that chance, woman to me I'd explode.

Of course you know the kind of person that I mean.

You also meet up with them every once in awhile, and, in the name of their dislike of hypocrisy and burning love of truth, are informed of some disagreeable and completely unnecessary fact by them.

"Truth, oh, truth, how many wrongs are committed in thy name!"

I suppose you are wondering what makes me so very rancorous tonight.

Well, I'll tell you.

Molly, the little stenographer lady, came to see me yesterday. Molly is one of my favorite heroines, along with Joan of Arc and Marie Antoinette. If I am ever clever enough I am going to put her in a book. She is twenty-one years old. She is very pretty. If she hadn't been overworked and undermused all her life she would be even prettier. She works in an office through which many men of all sorts are continually passing. A few of them are genuinely kind to her, but most of them insist upon regarding her prettiness as a sort of "girl for sale" sign. Almost every new man tries to work up a more or less desperate flirtation with her. "You can't trust any man. Not even the white-haired ones, who, being by talking about their daughters at home. Often they are the worst," is the sum of Molly's experience. And yet, despite the handicap of her surroundings and her charm, the stenographer lady has kept both her character and her dignity intact.

Molly has worked ever since she was sixteen and never earned more than ten dollars a week, because she didn't have a good equipment to start with.

To return to my theme—the stenographer lady came to me last night with the corners of her mouth turned down. "That is new for Molly," for despite her far from hilarious life, she manages to keep those corners pretty perky. And this was the reason, she said, as it came out in due season. A big event had just taken place in Molly's uneventful life. She had bought a new hat—the first one she had had in three winters. And, alas, it was a terrible error in judgment—a hideous shape and an unbecoming color.

The stenographer lady, as soon as she had bought it, dimly suspected that she had made a terrible mistake, but her mates knowing how much it pleased her, and how very, very long Molly would have to wear it, nobly rose to the occasion and reassured her, and Molly was comforted.

And then, as if luck would have it, Molly met up with a plain speaker, and the plain speaker, glorying in the fact that she was no hypocrite, told Molly, "You know I never can pretend to like anything when I don't, and, really, Molly, it isn't a bit your style. Why you looked better in that old hat you wore last year than you do in this. And no one is wearing that kind of feathers now, and look at that velvet. It's terribly cheap."

Of course, the girls who told Molly it was the most becoming hat she ever had didn't do right.

Hypocrisy is wicked, of course, but I wonder what St. Peter thinks of certain kinds of plain speaking.

When anyone asks one's opinion in regard to something which can be altered, I think one should tell the truth as gently as possible. But when anyone asks one's opinion on some unfortunate and unalterable fact, like poor little Molly's ugly hat, I don't see why it isn't permissible not to tell everything one knows.

Do you?

W H BELIEVE that economy does not mean spending a small amount, but in getting the largest returns for the money expended.

The Winter Berry.

The rosy winter berry is now in abundance in our markets. There are many attractive ways of serving them. For the plain stewed cranberry, wash them and cut once in half, adding a pint of water to a quart of berries. When about half cooked add two cups of sugar and finish cooking.

For cranberry jelly, cook a quart of berries with a cup of water over the fire for ten minutes. Rub through a sieve, add one cupful of sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then pour into glass jars. This will not tell if it is allowed to boil.

Spiced cranberries are nice served with game, and are prepared as any fruit for pickling. Wash a quart of the berries and a half cup of water. In a small bag tie a dozen cloves, 12 allspice, two sticks of cinnamon and several blades of mace. Put the bag into the cranberries and water and stew all together until the fruit is well broken. Remove the spice bag, run the berries through a colander, add two cups of sugar (brown), stir until dissolved and set away to get cold.

Cranberry Pudding.—Four boiling water on one pint of bread crumbs; melt one tablespoonful of butter and add to the crumbs. Add two well-beaten eggs, one pint of stewed cranberries and sweeten to taste. Bake in a buttered dish until firm. Serve with an egg sauce, which is made by beating one egg until light. Add a half cup of sugar and a cup of hot milk; flavor with lemon or vanilla.

Cranberry and Apple Pie.—Peel, core and slice five large cooking apples, put a layer in the bottom of the pie plate, sprinkle with sugar and put in a layer of cranberries, then more apples and berries until the dish is full. Moistan with water, cover with a rich crust, brush over with the beaten white of an egg. Bake the pie for an hour in a moderate oven.

Cranberry Dumplings.—Take a paste of half a pound of chopped suet rubbed into a pound of flour; add a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a teaspoonful of sugar and sufficient water to make paste to roll out. Line a buttered baking dish with it, fill with uncooked cranberries well sweetened, cover with hot crust, cover with buttered paper and steam gently for two hours.

Make Over Old Firearms.

A large business in making over old firearms is carried on in Belgium. At Liege 8,000 muskets, working principally at home, turn out "antiquities." They transform modern rifles into flintlocks.

She Ought to Remember This. At never takes the woman who is suspicious of all other women long to get herself suspected.

stone, after which cold cream must be applied.

To feet which swell easily some comfort is restored by a bath containing salt and borax.

For troublesome perspiration use orris powder, alum water or a lotion consisting of four ounces of tany rum and eight grains of tannic acid.

Sweeping Good Exercise.

Sweeping exercises every muscle of the body. It is sufficiently vigorous to give good exercise, and at the same time it is not so strenuous as to over-tire. A woman who sweeps does it regularly at certain hours of the day, and regularly in exercise makes for good.

Then, again, the exercise is exercise with a definite object in view. The mind is interested at the same time as the body is employed.

Sweeping movements are particularly good for the lungs. The chest muscles are exercised all the time, and this helps to establish deep breathing. This naturally tends to produce a good figure as well as a pure state of the blood and therefore a good complexion. The old fashioned broom should be used and not the patent carpet sweep-er. Ten leaves or damp brush should be used beforehand to prevent the dust from rising and getting into the lungs.

Rest Cure For the Hair.

Rest cure for the hair is being practiced by American society women. It requires that they give up their social engagements for a week, but it rewards them with lustrous healthy hair. In addition to giving them a chance to relax from the strenuous rush of social calls, autumn is the best time for the rest cure, as the hair falls out and often gives women much alarm. During the cure vanity compels the women to remain in hiding except to their most intimate friends. Hats and hair structures are discarded. The hair is permitted to hang loose. There are no curls. No hat is worn, and the sun is permitted to shine on the hair, giving it a rich luster. It is brushed frequently, and the hair is secured in coils rather than in curls, but as few pins as possible are used to hold the coils together.

BREAKS UP A COLD AND CURES GRIPPE.

The Most Severe Cold and Grippe Misery Will Be Relieved in Just A Few Hours.

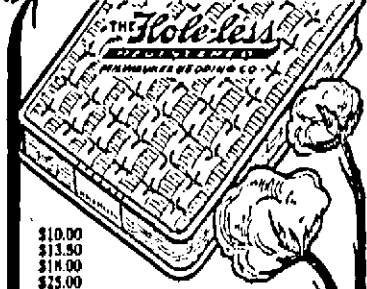

You can surely end Grippe, and break up the most severe cold either in head, chest, throat, stomach or limbs, by taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, without interference with your usual duties and with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or Grippe.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

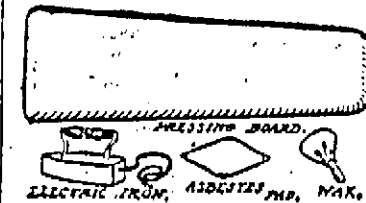

By ROSE TERRELL.

One of the most practical ideas recently offered is the ceremony of making gifts to the home. A day or two before Christmas each member of a household made some offering to the general comfort to the home. One daughter hemmed and hung wash curtains in the bath room. A son presented a new drop lamp. The father offered a new library table. The ingenious boy in the manual training school offered a magazine rack made to match the furnishing of the library. The mother and maid went through the house making all airtight and clean, wiping down walls and mouldings and changing the pictures to give an air of freshness. This little ceremony for the comfort of all was called "Making Gifts to the Home" and was accomplished with much merry making. It lightens the burden of the house-keeper and also bestows gifts which are intended for general use in a way that makes them seem less selfish than to give to one person what is intended for the pleasure of all. The study of your own home will tell you what is appropriate to give "to the home."

For the friend who is abroad a problem presents itself at Christmas. The gift must be simple, and one that will not prove a burden to the traveler. It must be sent in time and with no difficulty to pay.

A serviceable gift is a hat protector. To make one yard of thin, the china silk in any desired color is required. If there is no society or college color to consult, black is always good. Either hemstitch or braidstitch a hem one inch wide all around the four sides. A heavier piece of silk the same shade should be basted in the center of the under side of the square and then braidstitched through from the upper

A pressing set is a welcome gift to the girl who is away from home and in business. The small board covered with felt or flannel cloth, and having two heavy cotton slips with tapes to tie it tightly on. The iron should be one of the small electric or alcohol self-heated. Do not get it too light as heavy pressure is so often necessary. There should be an asbestos pad and a wax cake. This last should be made from the fragrant bayberry wax which is a little more expensive than common beeswax. The board should be light but small enough to go into a suit case. An initial worked in the corners of the cover slip gives the gift an individuality. Tie the gifts in dainty tissue paper with colored ribbons. Just because it is strictly useful should not deter you from giving in the true Christmas wrapping. Lay in a supply of dainty wrapping ribbons, colored tissues and tissue papers, as well as the seals and tags that are the spice of the season. Devote one drawer to these small findings and much trouble will be saved. Make one color scheme run through paper and ribbons—scarlet and green, white and yellow—two shades of violet, blue and gray or blue and silver are good combinations.

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch. Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble. Because—it cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—it enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease. Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure. Drop into our store today, just to talk over your case with us. J. P. Baker, Janesville, Wis.

ELECTS DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMAN.

Grand Rapids, Mich. (Special)—Most girls have their hubbies, but it remained for the charming Miss Sophia, daughter of Congressman Edwin F. Sweet of Michigan, to set a new style.

She entered politics for the sport of it and did much to turn one strongly republican district to the democrats.

During the recent heated campaign she became a familiar figure throughout the Fifth district at the wheel of her touring car. She visited with her father every nook and corner of the district, personally driving the car over 2,000 miles of good and bad roads in all kinds of weather. Everywhere she won friends and votes. When soon at her home she laughingly said: "It was the best fun ever."

Mr. Sweet takes particular pride in his daughter and her loyalty and hard work in his behalf. "I go into office with no strings attached to my campaign, but let me tell you, if there is anything I can do for Sophia she is going to get it," was his remark as the car pulled out of sight.

There was a football player Who padded ears and nose, Then stitched a padded layer Where shoulder blades arose. Had another player.

NO CASH FOR DEEP WATERWAY.

Estimates by War Department Have Nothing for Channel Project.

Washington, Nov. 29.—In the list of appropriations for river and harbor improvements for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, made public by Secretary of War Dickinson in the form of a report made to him by Brig. Gen. W. H. Hixby, chief of engineers of the United States army, congress will be asked to appropriate the sum of $30,000,000 for construction work in different parts of the country.

Of this amount no provision is made for the lakes-to-the-gulf water way project.

In the estimates it is seen that the idea of President Taft, who ordered that all "pork barrel" measures be strangled, have been carried out. His instructions to the army engineers were to prepare estimates only for such projects as are absolutely needed or which give promise to reduce the cost of transportation by opening up new water routes or enlarging some of those already existing.

CLUB WOMEN OF TEXAS GATHER.

State Federation Opens Annual Session at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 29.—This city is swarming with club women from every part of the state, here as delegates and visitors to the thirteenth annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. As a preliminary to the general sessions the council of presidents met this afternoon in the St. Anthony hotel, with Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker in the chair. Several important features of club work were discussed and later in the day there was a general reception to all delegates and visitors, given by the San Antonio city federation.

Tonight, "president's evening," Mrs. Bacon Saunders, first vice-president, will preside over a meeting at which the women will be welcomed by D. J. Woodward, Miss Eleanor Brackenridge and Mrs. Ell Hertzberg. Mrs. J. L. Cunningham of Beaumont will respond, after which there will be a large number of brief addresses. The general sessions of the federation begin tomorrow morning and will continue until Friday afternoon.

BELIEVE PRAYER CURES YOUTH.

Parents of Lad Unconscious 43 Days Lay Recovery to Pleas.

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Victor Waldron, six years old, who for the last forty-three days has been unconscious, following injuries sustained when he was run over by an automobile, has regained consciousness and will recover, according to the physicians. Some people express the belief that there is a supernatural significance in the boy's improvement. This feeling is in part based on that churches and organizations representing thousands have for weeks been praying for the recovery of the little sufferer. The boy's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Louis V. Waldron, are certain that their son's recovery was accomplished by the power of prayer.

MUTINOUS CREW IN RESTRAINT.

Spanish Sailors Reach New York Below Hatches Under Guard.

New York, Nov. 29.—The British freighter Clan Maclean arrived here with 11 Spanish sailors below hatches under guard, the crew having mutinied more than two weeks ago. For 15 days Captain Williams and three officers were compelled to run the ship by themselves.

The captain appealed to the authorities at Delaware Breakwater November 6 for aid, and assistance was sent him from Philadelphia after a delay of ten days.

The sailors mutinied because they did not wish to go to New York. Their leader said it was too cold here.

White House Calf Dead.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Jill Mill, Pauline Wayne's aristocratic young calf, is dead. The calf came suddenly at the White House stables from brain fever.

YANKEE MINE OWNER IS KILLED IN MEXICO

Gustave Monroe Slain by Italian—More Fighting is Expected in Chihuahua.

Mexico City, Mex., Nov. 29.—Gustave Monroe, an American mine owner, was shot and killed by Jose Suoma, an Italian, in a public garden in Chihuahua. The shooting is said to have followed a quarrel. Monroe shot and mortally wounded his assailant before losing consciousness. Monroe had relatives in Oakland, Cal., and Kansas City, Kan.

Two thousand reinforcements are expected before the government resumes its attempt to reconquer the Mexico & Northwestern railroad.

The insurgents are said to have been reinforced by bands from Parral and they have fortified positions at various points. Lively fighting is expected when the campaign starts.

Sunday's fight was the first real fight of the insurrection in this vicinity. Three hundred insurgents attacked the rear guard, numbering 150 of government troops. Seven dead insurgents have been brought in. The government lost one killed and seven wounded. The fight lasted three hours.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 29.—That Francisco I. Madero is safe and unharmed is the news brought to his family by a courier who comes direct from him. The messenger says Madero is gathering his forces in the Laguna district near Laredo and Parral. Madero was not wounded at any time, says the envoy, and is constantly gathering allies to his standard.

REORGANIZE CUSTOMS SLEUTHS.

MacVeagh Designates Wilkie to Make the Service Effective.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The secret police system of the customs service, which extends over the United States and Europe, is to be reorganized.

Secretary MacVeagh has designated John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States secret service, to undertake the job. The two organizations, however, will remain separate and distinct.

Instructions to Chief Wilkie are to bring the customs agents up to the same standard as has been established in the organization which detects counterfeiters and protects the life of the president.

French Forces Sustain Reverse.

Madrid, Nov. 29.—The captain general of Melilla has informed the government here of a serious reverse sustained by a French force in the Melilla territory. A large number of tribesmen surprised and attacked a French detachment, killing all its officers and a number of men.

Any Good Doctor Will Tell You

There Is "Nothing So Fine For The Stomach As Peps-oda Tablets.

The Doctors Ought To Know.

They know, too, how much trouble most folks have had trying to get rid of their stomach troubles, trying to find some way so that they can really eat like they ought to be able to eat and not suffer hours of distress after every meal.

Peps-oda is the way.

Peps-oda For The Stomach

One to three tablets after a meal for the next few days will make you a full-fledged member of the "I Feel Fine Club."

Peps-oda relieves indigestion wonderfully, puts the stomach in working order, clears it up, sweetens the breath, makes you forget you ever had dyspepsia; puts a new sparkle in your eyes, a new pink in your cheeks.

Peps-oda (a combination of pure vegetable peptin (not animal peptin) and pure soda) Membership feels the "I Feel Fine Club" is but 25 cents. You will find your membership card, a little yellow box of Peps-oda tablets, in an easel on your druggist's show case. Take out the box we have left there for you, lay a quarter on the counter and forget about your stomach.

You Can Be Made Well If You Will Come to the Chiropractors

Every disease known to mankind yields to Chiropractic adjustment. Chiropractic is a science of old truths, the most wonderful aid to mankind in centuries. It's a new science, that analyzes and locates unerringly the physical cause of disease, and provides a means of adjusting or removing this cause more promptly, radically and permanently than any other method known at the present time. These may seem bold statements to make. Yet there is plenty of proof to back them up. If you are sick and suffer, if you have tried the medical profession and failed to be cured, come to us. Ninety-eight per cent of the people that come to the Chiropractors are made well, and this notwithstanding the fact that 75 per cent of these same people HAVE BEEN GIVEN UP by the medical profession. Call for an examination and advice in regard to your troubles. Even though slight, they may be nature's danger signals of serious ailments. EXAMINATIONS COST NOTHING.

ITCHING, BLEEDING ECZEMA WAS CURED

By Cuticura After 5 Years of Suffering Beyond Description—Thought Death was Near—Calls Cure Wonderful.

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema. Until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day I would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in such a full-fledged manner as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment. I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have taken four bottles of Cuticura Remedies, and consider myself well. I was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address, Mrs. Alice Eason, 123 1/2 10th St., Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 10, 1909."

Cuticura affords the most economical treatment for eczema of the skin and scalp, from infancy to old age. Cases of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are often supplied. Write to Cuticura, Corp., Sole Trade, Boston, Mass.

Adaptability of Brain.
Each vocation makes a different call upon the brain and develops faculties and qualities peculiar to itself, so that as the various professions, trades and specialties multiply, the brain takes on new adaptive qualities, thus giving greater variety and strength to civilization as a mass. When the world was young the brain of man was very primitive, because the demand upon it was largely for self-protection and the acquisition of food, which called only for the development of its lower, its animal part. As civilization advanced, however, there was a higher call upon the brain and a more varied development, until today, in the highest civilization, it has become exceedingly complex.—Success Magazine.

Helme's Mission.
What Helme really desired and fought for was the liberation of man in body and spirit. He strove to break up the crust of outward dogmas and traditions and selfish tyrannies, which in his day weighed upon the spirit of the German people with an oppression hardly realizable by us. He was most truly one of the makers of Germany. That that country produced him is one of its chief glories, one of its many claims on the sympathy and admiration of the modern world. It is true that he was better understood there; and to be understood is pre-eminently in Helme's case—and not in his relations of citizenship and patriotism alone—to be forgiven.—London Times.

Where He Posted His Letter.

A young Reuben from Kentucky blew into Washington the other day with a bunch of wealth which he had recently acquired. He didn't know much about the city and this was soon exemplified. He wrote a letter to the friends in Berryville and enclosed a $20 bill in it, then calmly walked out of his hotel and dumped that letter in one of the waste paper boxes that hang on the lamp posts. A gentleman standing near, rather curious to know why he had done this, asked him if he knew that that was a waste paper box and not a letter box, and you just ought to have seen the way that Reuben scratched the melon rinds, orange peel, peach seeds, etc., out of that box. He rescued his letter all right, but it didn't look a bit pretty.

Bad Odors Good for Germs.

While we always by instinct associate bad odors with bad health there has been no scientific reason for this belief, as there may be no noxious germs mingled with the bad odors. Two members of the French academy of science have been making experiments which go to show that the popular belief has foundation in fact. They prepared strips of paper with "cultures" of the germs of typhoid fever, diphtheria, etc., and placed them in flasks, some of which were filled with pure air, while in others was placed decaying animal matter. After 24 hours these strips were taken out and used to raise germ colonies. It was found in every case that the germs that had been exposed to the bad odors grew better than the others.

What He Wanted For.

Little Tommy Whacken was taken by his mother to choose a pair of knickerbockers, and his choice fell on a pair to which a card was attached, stating: "These can't be beaten."—Current Literature.

Pathetic.

He was very sad. His confidence in some of his best friends had been rudely shattered. He had just acknowledged that he had been mistaken and they had not contradicted him.

Poetic Expression.

This is little Dick's picturesque description of his first flash of lightning and first clap of thunder: "Oh, mamma, I saw an angel go into heaven and bang the door after it."

Röntgen Rays Reveal Gold.

The interior of a gold-bearing rock was inspected in an Oregon town by means of the Röntgen rays, and veins of gold were as plainly visible as if they had been on the surface.

Queer Medical Treatment.

"Spotted fever" received some queer treatment in John Wesley's day, according to Wesley's Journal of September, 1746. A man named John Trembath had the fever and Wesley wrote: "It was the second relapse into the spotted fever, in the height of which they gave him sack, cold milk and apples, plums, as much as he could swallow. I can see no way to account for his recovery, but that he had not yet finished his work."

CHICAGO YOUNG MAN KILLED UNDER CARS AT THE NEW YARDS

Frank McNulty, Aged 27 Died Of Injuries Received When Limbs Were Severed and Right Arm Cut Off.

Frank McNulty of Chicago, aged 27, died yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock of the effects of injuries received when both legs and his right arm were cut off by a freight train on the Northwestern railroad in the yards at South Janesville. McNulty, with two companions, whose names are unknown, was seen about the yards by men working there, in the afternoon, and later his mangled body, with the two limbs severed below the knees and the arm off below the elbow was found under the wheels of an extra train going south. He was picked up by members of the switchmen engine crew in charge of Switchman Michael Dulin, placed on a stretcher improvised from an engine curtain on the engine and rushed with all possible speed to the city in an effort to save his life. The man died just as the engine reached the local station. He was laid on a truck near the baggage room where he was examined for means of identification by Chief of Police Appleby and later taken to Nelson's morgue. McNulty's limbs were horribly mangled in the accident and one limb had been pulled from the hip socket.

The dead man had been working at the cannery factory recently and is thought to have intended to return to his home in Chicago. It is the supposition of members of the train crew and yard force that he attempted to climb into the side door of a car of shingles and fell under the wheels. He was seen to fall by Conductor Rogers in charge of the freight train who stopped the train. McNulty was unknown to any of the men working in the yards, and his identity was not established until his body was searched by the Chief of Police. He wore an outer suit, a rough coat and overalls, and underneath a good suit and sweater vest. In the inner coat a notebook was found containing some papers of no importance and a five-dollar bill. The man's name, his address 2422 North Drake Avenue, and telephone number were written in the front of the notebook. A Wells-Fargo express note, made out to Frank McNulty, Milwaukee, verified the name given in the book. In the treasure pockets some change amounting to ninety cents were found, two of the pocket and one of the quarters apparently having been curled by the wheels of the train when they passed over him.

The effects were turned over to Agent Alva L. Hennings of the Northwestern road. Mr. Hennings directed the dispatcher's office at Chicago, asking that a telephone message be sent to McNulty's home, and Detective William McNulty, a brother of the deceased, arrived last evening from Chicago with Undertaker Donoghue at 11:05. The remains were identified by the brother and as District Attorney Fisher decided an inquest was not necessary, the body was shipped to Chicago on the train at 12:45 over the Northwestern road.

McNulty had been absent from his home about three months, and, previous to his employment in the cannery factory here, had been working in the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. His father is a policeman in Chicago.

PORTAGE TEAM ON A TOUR OF CONTINENT

Basketball Champions Who Meet Cardinals Here Tomorrow Night, On Playing Trip Over Entire Country.

Co. F. basketball team of Portage, Wis., winners of the national basketball championship at the A. A. U. meet in Chicago last March, and now on a coast-to-coast tour, will play against the Lakota Cardinals tomorrow evening at the West Side rink. It is to be the greatest game of this season as the Portage, five is the best team against whom the Cardinals have been matched. The same squad as participated in the national tournament of the A. A. U. at Chicago, comprising Shepperd, Robert, captain, Schneider, Hain, "Duff" Harper, and Swenholz, will play for Portage. Portage defeated the "Mammoth" of Stoughton from whom the Cardinals last year won on the "red floor," and it is said that the Co. F. "squad" for this contest with the Cardinals. The Cardinals have strengthened their line-up by securing Kuechenmeister, who played center with the university squad which defeated them and will put forth their best efforts to prevent the champions from scoring too freely.

LIGHTNING PLAYED SOME QUEER PRANKS

Narrow Escape Of Members Of the Farnsworth Family In Freak Of Saturday's Electric Storm.

Utter's Corners, Nov. 29.—During the electrical storm Saturday night lightning played some queer pranks at the Roy Farnsworth home. A bolt struck the steel windmill and jumped from there to the corner of the summer kitchen roof, ran along the roof and entered the dining room through the south window, completely demolishing it. It crossed the dining room to the opposite corner and made its exit through the telephone putting that instrument out of commission by breaking the wire from the house and also breaking one of the wires at the road where it connected with the main line. The family were all in the parlor, except Miss Nettie Farnsworth, who was just crossing the dining room with a lamp in her hand. The lightning struck the chimney and knocked it from the lamp clear across the room, but did not put the lamp out nor did it burn Farnsworth in the least. Considerable damage was done to the house which was covered by insurance in the Linn company.

Several of our young people attended a reception given by Aldrich and bride, at the home of his parents, Mr.

THE THEATER

"THE GREAT AMERICAN PLAY" "PAID IN FULL"

"Paid in Full," the Eugene Walter play that will be seen at the Myers theatre, Thursday, December 1, matinee and evening, when the United Play Company offers it with a New York cast, owes its fame as the greatest American drama of the age to qualities that make it entertaining to persons of every taste. Because of this general appeal it possesses greater popularity than any play ever known to the American stage.

"Paid in Full" is too expansive and sweeping to narrow its interest to any one class or set of persons. Its reach is universal. It pictures in bold colors the real existence of many men and women in every American city. If the lives of the persons in "Paid in Full" be not our own, they certainly are those of many we know, with whose struggles and purposes we have which attention is not closely centered and sympathy held, as in real life, so in "Paid in Full," pathos and humor run side by side. Episodes of power and depth are accentuated by genuine comedy. The play is essentially an entertainment and it is the most famous drama now before the public.

It will be presented here by one of the five companies that appeared in it in New York City, a feature that makes the engagement the most notable. Local playgoers should not miss this great play with its great cast.

"The Fighting Parson," which is one of W. F. Mann's new productions, will be seen at Myers Theatre, Friday, December 2.

The title of the play might indicate that the Parson is always looking for trouble, but such is not the case. The intimate understanding. The play strikes home; it grips our sympathies. No one can see "Paid in Full" and not feel its intense humanity. While the characters are real they are not commonplace. The persons are those of the kind who do things, those actions go far in shaping many destinies. Mr. Walter has presented these persons with a vigor and distinctness that produce startling realism. He carries them through a story of absorbing fascination whose interest is not once relaxed.

Scene from "Paid in Full"

There is not a dull moment in "Paid in Full," nor an instant in word "fighting" may be used in many ways. It may be said that every Minister of the Gospel is a "fighting Parson." Does not lead the fight in the battle of Right? The character in the play is a noble one. He had during his studies for the ministry, developed himself into an unusually clever, athletic, while engaged in his settlement work, he is called upon very frequently to make use of his athletic propensities, hence he is called "The Fighting Parson."

The role of "The Parson" will be in the hands of who will be supported by a strong company of players.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 29, 1870.—Jottings.—At a business meeting of the church society of the First Baptist church of Janesville, last evening, a call was extended to Dr. Hodge of Leavenworth, Kansas, to become their pastor. "The call was unanimous and there was a great deal of feeling manifested. All seemed to earnest and acted as if they would not and could not take no for answer. After an expression of the meeting, the Doctor was sent for, and on his entrance into the room he was greeted with such a show of hearty welcome as is not often met with. After his introduction to the meeting he gave a short account of his visit and sojourn with his friends in Kansas. Although cordially received he was chilled by the action of the climate. We think we can safely say he will remain in Janesville. At least we hope so.

The half burned buildings on the corner of Main and East Milwaukee streets are to be sold at auction tomorrow.

The radiators for heating the new court house have arrived and are being placed in position and attached to the steam conducting pipes.

A chrom table with new and improved cushion has taken the place of one of the old pocket tables at the opera house billiard room.

TWO PER CENT TAX FOR CITY OF MONROE

Increase Of $4,000 In the School Fund Will Necessitate A Higher Tax Rate At Monroe.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Nov. 29.—A 2 per cent tax is now assured to the city tax payers. It was believed at first that levy of 1.35 for each thousand of assessed valuation would be sufficient, but on account of paying $4000 more than last year into the school fund, a 2 per cent rate will have to be exacted. However, the city tax levy has not been definitely decided upon, the council awaiting the apportionment of the state and county tax before fixing up the city tax budget. The city tax roll will be opened on December 12 and close January 31.

Bowling Series.
Two bowling teams have been formed for a series of matched games to be played in the armory this winter. The Citizens are under the leadership of J. H. Dursel and in the team are W. D. Clayton, Dr. W. H. Monroe and Prof. J. C. Penn. The Nationals are made up of John Strahm, leader, C. W. Twining, Frank G. Parks and Dr. W. H. Gungl. It is expected the rivalry will be keen. The first game resulted in victory for the Citizens, with 236 pins to spare.

Local News.
The members of Co. H, are to be fitted out with the United States Army regulation shoes. They will be worn by the men during inspection and at the annual encampment. The company will be measured this evening at the regular company drill for the shoes.

Miss Lola Tree was the recipient of a number of articles in the tin line at a shower given in her honor at the home of Mrs. Jay Brewer, by the members of the T. H. G. club of which she is a member. Miss Tree will be married in December to Mr. Will Geigle, of Artesian, S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Manning returned to Janesville after a few days' visit in this city. They came here principally for the Haren-Hodges wedding.

Miss Nellie Dursel, after a short visit at her home here, returned to Madison where she is employed in the university library.

Not to Be Easily Caught.
The confirmed bachelor came back to the club lunch from the end of the earth, and we all asked him if he was married yet (he is nearly fifty). "I shall marry a clever woman if I do," he replied, grimly. "Thought you didn't like those clever women?" said the youngest member, simply. "I don't," said the bachelor, whose views are well known and widely spread. "But if over I marry I'll be an infernally clever woman who does it!"

Paying For What You Use Only

Did you ever stop to consider what a snap it would be to have a dozen men always within call, to use each one occasionally and to pay each for only the actual time he worked? Quite a contrast from keeping them all on the payroll continually at full pay without enough work to keep them busy, isn't it?

The former plan would not apply in the case of men because they might starve to death. But it does apply in the case of Power, that other important thing you always have to consider.

Electric power with individual motors connected to our circuit means that the power is always at your call, but that you do not have to pay for it except when you actually use it. If the machine works eight hours a day, you pay for eight; if four hours, you pay for four; if one, you pay for one.

Lord Loveland Discovers America.

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company, Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"How shocking!" sympathized Cadwallader Hunter.

"Well, yes, it is rather a shock," returned Loveland dryly, "and if you don't mind, I think I'd better ask you to let me get over it alone."

"Oh, certainly, I quite understand," purred the banished courtier. But Kidd was making mental notes, and Cadwallader Hunter strove to retain his reputation as a valued cousin. "Just a minute or two, dear boy, and we'll take ourselves off. This is Mr. Kidd, from one of our most important papers."

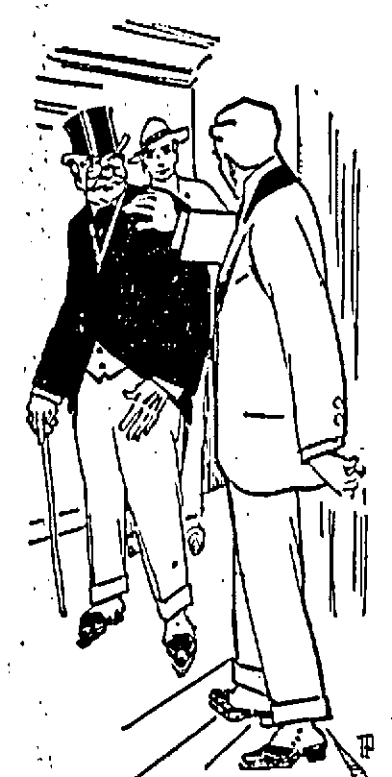

"Happy to see him another time," snapped Loveland. "Just now I'm in no temper to entertain strangers."

"But at least," Cadwallader Hunter protested, "you mustn't look on me as a stranger, my dear fellow, and if there's anything I can do—"

"My dear fellow," Loveland flung back at him in angry intonation, "if you keep on I'm more likely to look on you as a bore. The one thing you can do for me is to go and take your newspaper friend with you. Good morning."

And the bear shot back into his den, baying the door.

"The British lion before his midday meal," remarked the representative of the New York Light. "Another minute and he'd have snatched a free lunch—"

"NO AND TAKE YOUR NEWSPAPER FRIEND WITH YOU."

Kidd with Hunter snarled. But serve me up on toast if he hasn't got sauce enough of his own.

"He comes of a hot tempered family," Cadwallader Hunter explained his English relative.

"I should say they'd been hot over since William the Conqueror," commented Mr. Kidd. "Good family to keep away from when you haven't got your gun. I forgot mine this morning."

But he had not forgotten his style-graphic pen.

The moment that the door had slammed Loveland's ears thrilled with the consciousness that not only had he been guilty of a very rude act, but a particularly stupid one.

He reminded himself that a great liberty had been taken with him at an inopportune moment, that he was not used to having liberties taken with him at the best of times and that Cadwallader Hunter deserved all he had got for coming up to him uninvited with a stranger, a newspaper man, in tow.

Still, Val was not happy, and if he had not been too stubbornly proud to yield to his first impulse he would have flung open the door and run after his visitors with apologies. But, no; he would not do it—had precedent to make with a person like Cadwallader Hunter, he said, excusing himself.

CHAPTER VII.

THE COLE WAGON.

VAL had meant when his unpacking was done to dress and lunch in the restaurant whose name had reached even the dining room of the Guards' club.

Now he did not want to look at his fellow beings or be looked at, and he pressed his electric bell viciously to order luncheon up.

It came presently and would have been delicious to a man without a grievance, but Loveland's grievance was so gigantic that it crowded out his appetite. Useless to waste money in eating instructions for Foxham's arrest, he reflected. The wretch who had planned everything so well would long ago have taken himself out of harm's way.

No, Loveland decided, he need not hope to punish Foxham. His time might be better employed in planning the reconstruction of his own wardrobe.

A man, even a marquis, can live without the pins or a change of shirt studs, but he cannot live without such clothes as society expects of him.

Loveland thought with almost passionate regret of his tailor's achievements, lost to him forever, and with anxiety of the difficult matter it would be to replace them.

The hundred and fifty pounds represented by his letter of credit could not be spared for American tailors and bootmakers. That went without saying. These persons would have to trust him. But were American tailors and bootmakers of a trusting nature? Loveland had somehow got the impression that they were not and that even if you were a duke—much less a marquis—and flaunted a copy of Burke under their noses they would still want some native millionaire to guarantee them against loss.

Cadwallader Hunter was not a millionaire; this was the one damning statement he had voluntarily made against himself, but he knew millions and was known by them, and with a pang of selfish regret, even sharper than his first remorse, Loveland repeated his wastefulness in throwing away such a friend. If he had not slammed the door almost upon Cadwallader Hunter's head, this nose he might now have summoned him by telephone and have got him to trot about introducing the Marquis of Loveland to the best tailors in New York. The only thing for Val to do was to wait until he had collected other friends more solid, more valuable than Cadwallader Hunter and as soon as possible tell the tale of his misfortune. Of course everybody would be delighted to help Lord Loveland, and, by the way, there was Mr. Cooldidge, who could be approached if worst came to worst.

When he had been cheered by lunch and soothed by cigarettes he sent for a motor taxicab. The afternoon was still young and so full of sparkle and gaiety that he seemed worth living after all; therefore Lord Loveland had begun to value himself almost as highly as ever by the time his smart little automobile pulled up in front of the bank.

It was a stately bank, well worthy of its London connection, and he landed in his visiting card and letter of credit with the air of one entitled to receive unlimited sums. The cashier, however, having looked at him, the card and the letter, did not appear to be impressed. Instead of replying in words to Loveland's demand for £20, he walked away with the letter of credit in his hand and vanished behind a swinging door. After a short delay the cashier returned, and having strolled back to his place behind the grating, there stood silent for a moment.

"I'm rather in a hurry," said Loveland. "I suppose there'll be no red tape about my getting £20? I want it this afternoon."

The cashier smiled a dry smile, and his voice sounded dry as he answered. "I don't know about the red tape, but I'm sorry to tell you we have no instructions from London to pay."

"What?" cried Val, reddening with annoyance. "You have no instructions?"

"No instructions to pay," repeated the cashier, putting on the last word an emphasis which sounded offensive to Loveland's ears, though he hastily assured himself that it could not possibly have any such meaning.

"This is very inconvenient," said Val, to whom bridge and tips on shipboard had left exactly seventeen shillings threepence halfpenny.

"I'm sorry for that," remarked the cashier, still more formally, more unsympathetically and—one might almost have said—more disrespectfully than before.

Loveland, though inclined to storm, reflected a moment. He had intended to sail on the Baltic, which was due to leave English shores only yesterday and might not arrive in New York for seven or eight days. He had not given any one notice—not even his mother—that he had changed his intention, and very likely the London papers had paragraphed him as a passenger on the Baltic's next trip. Nevertheless he could not quite understand how that fact excused his London bank's delay in instructing their New York correspondents. They had had plenty of time to arrange his affairs before his sudden departure on the Mauretania, and by not doing so they were likely to make him a great deal of unnecessary trouble.

"Well, I don't see why I should be made to suffer because the London and Southern bank puts off till tomorrow what it ought to have done a week ago," said Loveland, beginning to be arrogant, though looking boyish, with his flushed face and his white hair glimmering on his background of clear, ruddy, brown, "I must have some money, you know."

The cashier did not reply to this challenge, and his eyes expressed no interested consideration of the matter. "You had better see your manager and explain the circumstances," pursued Val.

"It would be useless. We could not pay without instructions."

"I dare say I might manage with £10 till you could get an answer, if you choose to be so ridiculously overcautious," Loveland insisted loftily. "But in that case you must enable me to pay for the message in advance?" suggested the cashier.

"Certainly not," said Val, no longer trying to keep his temper under control. "You've seen my card. Isn't that enough for you?"

"Business is business," quoted the bank employee, still unperturbed, still blind to Lord Loveland's importance, could to his necessity.

"And decency's a fool," stormed Val, careless now whether he looked or listened and in a mad wreck all American institutions.

"Yes, it's as well as not to forget that," the cashier hinted maliciously. "Sorry we cannot accommodate you at present."

"I'm hanged if you've got the chance, again," retorted Loveland.

his letter of credit from the cashier. "I shall myself send a cable to the London and Southern which will make you repent your piquefulness." And with this ultimatum he strode to the door as if on the way to sign a death warrant.

"Justly American! Heavily American!" he muttered. "I suppose this is their way of resenting the existence of aristocracy."

Trying to forget the first snub man had ever dared to deal him, he flashed here and there in his motor cab, making a house to house distribution of Jim's envelopes and his own visiting cards, according to home custom when armed with letters of introduction.

The sky flamed with sunset banners—Spanish colors—long before he had finished his round and was ready to return to the Waldorf. There his idea of a suitable present to the chauffeur left him with the American equivalent of eight or nine shillings in his pocket. But, as he had expected, the hotel paid for his afternoon's motoring. So cheerfully did it pay that he sent off an unnecessarily long and extremely frank cablegram to his London bankers which they ought to receive on opening their doors next morning. He thought that it would rather wake them up and that in consequence of their response to New York—certainly to flash immediately along the wires—he would receive an apology from the rude wretch who had insulted him that afternoon. But nothing would induce him to forget or forgive. He had informed the London bankers that his business must be diverted into another channel, which they were invited to suggest.

When Loveland found himself alone again in his luxurious suite of rooms with the November night coming on and no amusement on hand he half wished once more that he had not been so cautious in the matter of accepting invitations. After all, it would not have compromised his future if he had gone to dine with the Cooldidges or Spanish-eyed, attractive Mrs. Milton and her gentle little daughter Fanny. The next best thing to dining with friends would be to watch the coming and going of gay New York in the restaurant.

He dressed and went down about 8, therefore, looking forward to the novelty of the unknown.

It was a brilliant scene into the midst of which Loveland had plunged. Society begins to dine earlier in New York than in London; therefore at 8 o'clock dinner was in full swing. There was scarcely an empty table, and many of the women being in hats and semi-evening dress, the red and gold restaurant suggested to the newcomer a living picture of Paris.

He had had the forethought to telephone down and order a table to be kept for him, and on informing an attentive waiter that he was Lord Loveland he learned that his place would be found at the far end of the room.

It looked a very far end, indeed, gazing across an intervening sea of flower like hats, charming faces and jeweled necks that glimmered white under film of lace and tulle, but Loveland was not shy. He rather enjoyed his progress, winding on and on along narrow paths between rose bordered tables, with lovely eyes lifting to his as he passed by. He wondered if any pair of those eyes was destined to look down his own table at Loveland castle some day. Well, they should be beautiful eyes to deserve the honor. The thought slipped vaguely through his head, and then his own eyes brightened with the light of recognition.

There, at a large table decorated with white and purple violets, sat Elton Cooldidge, her father, Mrs. Milton and Fanny and two men whom Loveland had never seen before. Standing and bending slightly down to talk in a confidential tone with one of these men was Major Cadwallader Hunter.

His back was turned toward Loveland, who recognized him instantly, however, by the set of his high military shoulders and the bald spot on his head which Lesley Deasmer had likened to the shape of Italy on the map. He seemed to listen with deep interest to what one of the seated men was saying and then to chime in eagerly with some addition of his own. Suddenly Loveland caught Fanny Milton's eye. She started and blushed scarlet. The slight involuntary movement she made drew Mrs. Cooldidge's attention, and Elton, seeing the direction in which Fanny's eyes were turned, cast a glance that way.

THE TIMES PRESENT AND PAST

RELATIONS OF THE EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

Story of Englishman Who Was Long in Service at One Place Has Some Bearing on Question at Issue.

Did the old-time employer treat his employees any better than the average employer treats him now?

Leaving aside the unions and their influences for the tradesman, that occasional question arises and ordinarily the argument following it ends in some heat and without having settled the point. In the light of the general question and with those who may hold that the present employer is more exacting, the story told by an Englishman of an old servant who has spent 45 years of his life with one family near the town of Selby, at least is interesting.

John Durham was working on the same old farm in Yorks. He had gone to work for the father of his present employer when John was "big enough to work," which in those times (1845) disregarded all schooling and put the boy in harness at eight or ten years of age. His pay was 12 cents a week, with food. In his early teens he was paid 50 shillings a year and board.

In those early days he worked from daylight to dark in summer and in winter he rose at five o'clock and worked till bedtime. At twenty-three years old, when he got married, his wage was $3 a week, out of which salary he had to pay rent for his house. Soon afterward his salary reached $1 a week, and he has paid his rent and "rates" ever since in the same house. Two years ago John Durham's wife died after having had 20 children. Her death cost him heavily, he was forced to appeal to the parish for aid. He was disqualified for the reason that he was "receiving more than 75 cents a week."

As to the point of "better treatment" for men of his type, this man was forced at all times in the old days to keep up his rent for his house. In that time he had raised a family of 19 children—as one of the children died. Nothing in the passing of the older employer had relieved him of rent and "rates" which he already had paid for a generation or more.

This scarcely seems in keeping with the old principle of "noblesse oblige," which has come to us from British consuls for years.

As to the son employer who succeeded him, rents and "rates" must be paid out of the salary. In a general way the old man admits that more money is paid to poorer workers than he was, and he admits that the hours of work on the farm have been shortened. He says:

"In the good old days provisions were only half the price; best beef was only six pence a pound, bacon was three pence and four pence, and then there were no trains and things to get about with."

Folks were more satisfied, and there was nothing to worry them such as motor cars and all of their new fangled things."

The whole point of the little sketch is that it furnishes food for thought on either side a man may take in the present time as compared with half a century ago.

HON. HORACE G. KNOWLES.
Editor Receives Appointment to Important Diplomatic Post.

Washington, D. C.—The departure for Bolivia of the United States' new minister, Horace G. Knowles, was the occasion of an interesting banquet in his honor given by friends. He was appointed minister to Bolivia on June 24, 1910, and his appointment was received with approval in both Bolivia and the United States.

Mr. Knowles was born at Sanford, Delaware, in 1863. He was graduated at Delaware college, in 1884, and in 1889 was appointed United States consul to Bordeaux, France, and returned with the intent of the Cleveland administration in 1892. He was admitted to the bar of Newcastles county, Delaware, in 1895, and was for several years the attorney of the county, and successfully conducted many important cases. He was the editor and proprietor of The Evening Journal, the leading daily newspaper of Delaware, for two years prior to entering the diplomatic service in January, 1907, when he was appointed envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Roumania and Serbia, July 1, 1907. He was appointed minister to Roumania and Serbia and diplomatic agent in Bulgaria, and successively minister to Stenmark and minister to the Dominican republic.

"THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS IN THE EATING"

You can attract the attention of the public by "boosting" your own proposition, but the only way to convince them is to make good on all of your representations.

We are doing this with hundreds of the best farmers, business men and investors twice a month.

We are doing it by taking them to the famous Cross "S" ranch, located in the wonderful Nueces Valley of Southwest Texas, five hours from beautiful San Antonio, the largest city in Texas, and the great winter playground of the South.

We are having our people make a thorough personal investigation. We are having them talk to disinterested parties. We are allowing them to visit every corner of the ranch, unaccompanied by those interested in Cross "S" ranch, and they are drawing their own conclusions and making their own decisions. Among others on the November 15th excursion we had three Wisconsin men from this vicinity, whose standing is of the highest in their own communities and who enjoy the confidence of hundreds of farmers and business men throughout Southern Wisconsin and North Dakota. You are acquainted with W. H. Cory of Footville and O. D. Brace of Janesville. Mr. W. T. Best is a prominent North Dakota resident who recently moved to this city. We had to do some hard work to get these men to go, but the answer is the same right down the line. They visited Cross "S" Ranch and became Cross "S" Ranch enthusiasts, and here is what they have to say. Read these letters, think it over, decide whether you want to make this trip, and if so, remember our next excursion will leave Janesville on Tuesday morning, December 6th, at 10:45. You will travel in our own cars direct from Chicago to the ranch without change. You will visit beautiful San Antonio,

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 25, 1910.

Mr. Ward D. Williams,

Northern Manager Cross "S" Ranch Irrigated Farms,
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Mr. Williams: It affords me a great deal of pleasure to express to you my appreciation and opinion of Cross "S" Ranch irrigated farms, obtained from a personal visit and investigation of the property during my trip to Texas the past ten days.

I am free to confess that prior to this trip I was somewhat skeptical in regard to representations made by your people.

The best proof of what I think of these farms, is that I have become personally interested and have invested in Cross "S" Ranch farms myself.

I find that all you have represented to be entirely accurate and true, in fact you could have said a great deal more and then not told all of the wonderful possibilities these farms offer to the homeseeker and investor.

My talks with disinterested parties in no wise connected with the Ranch lead me to believe that in a very short period these farms will double and triple in value.

I would strongly advise all those desiring a home and an absolute safe and income producing investment to take advantage of your proposition before it is too late.

Very truly yours,

O. D. BRACE.

Footville, Wis., November 28th, 1910.

Mr. Ward D. Williams,

Northern Manager Cross "S" Ranch Irrigated Farms,
Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: Having recently visited the Cross "S" Ranch in Southwest Texas, and complying with your request to make a statement regarding the soil, climate and productions of this vast tract of land will say.

I am most favorably impressed with its fertile soil, its delightful climate and its irrigation facilities. The owners and promoters of Cross "S" Ranch I found to be most courteous, treating all alike and assisting the people in every way possible.

The country is all that it has been portrayed, and its possibilities unlimited and not over-drawn. There are certain unmistakable conditions and indications which speak well of Southwest Texas, and which every conservative man should consider in seeking a new location.

Yours very cordially,

W. H. CORY.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 28, 1910.

Mr. Ward D. Williams,

Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: In answer to your request for my opinion of the Cross "S" Ranch property I hope I may be able to say something to induce someone to go down there and see the property.

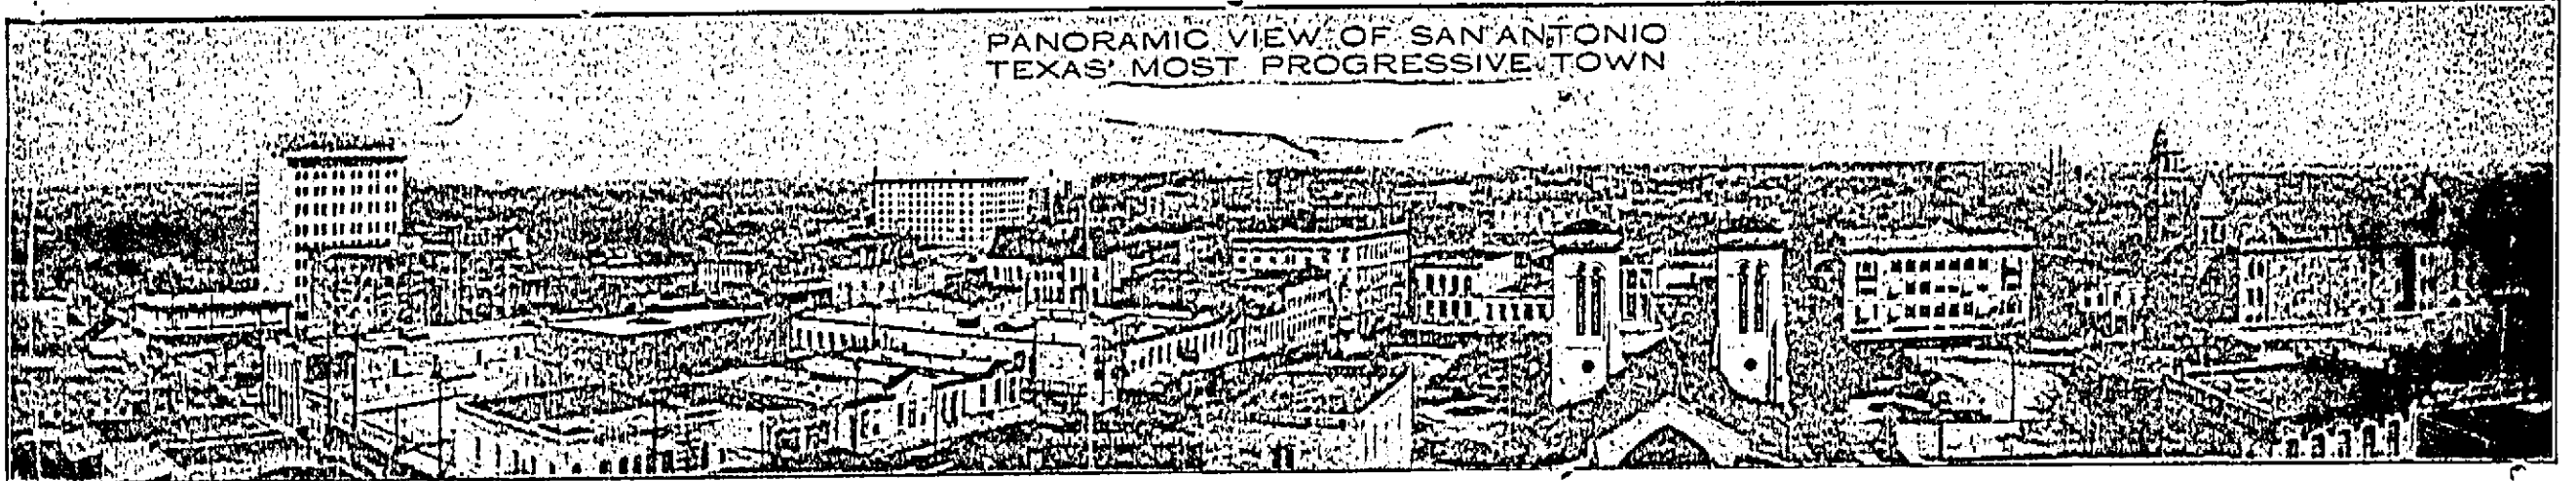

The trip is well worth the time and money it costs to make it. I find there the soil, climate and water, but what impressed me the most was the nice class of people that were already on the farms there, and those that were then looking over the lands.

I take great comfort in knowing that I am soon to live amongst them and am trying hard to have my relatives and friends in North Dakota buy some land near ours on your Ranch.

I spent nearly a week on the Cross "S" Ranch and practically made a house to house canvas and am satisfied the climate could not be better. The resources are as you advertise and there is a great future for that arid belt, where they are raising the most profitable fruits and vegetables I know of, at the right time of year for the best prices.

I have been in Oregon and Washington two different times, also Canada, and the conditions are nothing compared with the Cross "S". I can fault that country in no particular. It is good enough for yours truly,

W. T. BEST.

Busy, bustling, hustling San Antonio, the great winter playground of the South. Cross "S" ranch excursionists will visit this wonderful city at the height of its winters glory.

We Reproduce Herewith Two Articles Appearing In the Crystal City Chronicle:

Professor Malley is a man of the highest standing in his chosen work, and enjoys a national reputation. We have secured his services for a period of years and his services will be extended free of all charge to buyers of Cross "S" ranch lands. He is organizing co-operative associations for the marketing of different fruits and crops raised on the ranch and will give expert advice as to the use of soils and the proper amount of water in irrigating farms purchased.

PROF. MALLEY IS ON HIS JOB LEAVES STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE TO WORK AT CRYSTAL CITY.

As has been previously announced through the columns of the Chronicle, the Cross "S" Company has secured the services of Prof. F. W. Malley, Entomologist of the State Department of Agriculture, to assist purchasers of Cross "S" Ranch lands in the development of their farms, orchards and gardens.

Prof. Malley has arrived and has been quietly circulating among those clearing and preparing their lands for crops for the current season. He has been familiarizing himself with local conditions and is now ready to assist those requiring his counsel, and to come to their aid at once. Those who have progressed far enough in their development work to profit by his suggestions, should leave word either at the office of the Cross "S" Ranch at Crystal City, or their office at the East Side Hotel. Prof. Malley will then pay them a visit as soon as possible.

As evidence of the confidence his associates in Texas repose in him, the Texas State Horticultural Society elected him president, and he served his term in that capacity with credit to himself as well as to the State Horticultural Society.

He also served a term as President of the Texas Truck Growers' Association. He served about five years as a member of the faculty of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College as Professor of Entomology.

More recently he was elected Entomologist of the Texas State Department of Agriculture. This position he resigned to accept the directorship of the industrial development of the properties of the Cross "S" Company.

MALLEY'S NEW WORK

Nothing of greater importance, potentially, to the people of Crystal City has occurred since the advent of the railroad than the coming of Prof. Malley, who left a good berth with the state department of agriculture to become advisor-in-chief of the farmers of the Cross "S" ranch.

Prof. Malley's reputation is such as to expect highly beneficial results from his work here; but the men back of Malley, who are paying his salary, are to be borne in mind. The new arrangement is the first step in working out a big plan of co-operation among all the farmers who make headquarters in and near Crystal City, to the benefit of each of them individually and to the lasting profit of the whole community.

The man on the job, important as his functions are, is to be regarded as a means to a great end—the making of this neighborhood one of the most prosperous in all the prosperous Southwest. To that end, let's all shake hands with Malley, and use his services wherever we can.

We Strongly Advise the Rock County Farmer, Business Man and Investor To Make a Visit to Our Ranch and See Something That Is Really "Worth While"

Here Is a Three Man Combination—Now let's get together and read it over

FIRST, To young men looking forward to the time when they can afford to marry and have their own homes, here is a foundation for that future home, away from the worn out farms, away from the congested centers of the country, where he is master of his own property, of himself and earning far more than any wage earner can receive, or he can produce from land that has been tilled for years.

SECOND, To the young married man with his wife and babies, seeking a spot to bring them up in pure country air—surrounded by wholesome influence, where by the labor of his own hands and brain, he can furnish them not only with the necessities of life, but with most of its luxuries.

THIRD, To the man who is entering his declining years and wishes to spend them where the climate and surroundings breathe health, quiet and peace, with the maximum of comfort at the minimum of labor and expenditure,—in a country free from typhoid, malaria, and other ills found in a colder and more sterile climate, Cross "S" Ranch can show you the goods. To men of all ages who find here homes and the real joy of living under the blue sky on their own land, will make more money in one year than it has taken them the past ten years to earn. To the man who wishes to lay by for a rainy day it affords an investment without equal.

Prices On Cross "S" Ranch Lands Will Advance Jan. 1

The time to get in is now. A most ideal time to make the trip to the Sunny South and an opportunity to see the wonderful development and progress taking place in this great southwest country.

You Can Go and Return Within a Week, Or Stay the Time Limit On Your Ticket, Which Is Twenty-Five Days

You will visit Cross "S" Ranch and have a chance to make a personal inspection of the property we have been talking about.

One trip will make you a Cross "S" Ranch enthusiast, and if you care to invest you will become convinced what returns will accrue by obtaining Cross "S" Ranch lands.

The total expense for the round trip is only $31.20 from Janesville directly to the ranch, with sleeping car charges not to exceed $6.00 for the round trip, via THE FAMOUS IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE.

148 miles shorter, 8 hours quicker, than any other through route. Standard and Tourist sleeping and reclining chair cars (free of charge). Meals served in dining car on a la carte (pay only for what you order) plan.

$31.20 Round Trip, Leaving Janesville Tuesday, Dec. 6, At 10:35 A. M.

Special train leaves Chicago 3:00 p. m. on Tuesday, December 6.

Arrive St. Louis Tuesday, 11:30 p. m.
